Summary

I am an 18-year-old high-achieving student from Karlovo, currently attending a school with strong proficiency in English and Spanish. With excellent communication skills and a passion for helping others, I have experience engaging with people through online platforms. My ability to listen actively, solve problems, and work efficiently under pressure makes me well-suited for a customer service role. I am eager to apply my language skills and strong work ethic to contribute to a positive customer

EXPERIENCES

Freelance Developer

I have experience as a freelance web app developer with different frameworks, designing, developing, maintaining and selling small-scale applications such as e-commerce systems and chatbots. This experience has allowed me to enhance my technical skills, work with various clients, and deliver tailored digital solutions to meet their business needs.

English

I have several years of experience communicating in English with both native and non-native speakers, both online and in face-to-face settings. This experience has helped me refine my language skills and become highly confident in all forms of communication.
